

NATIONALIST PARTY CHARTER

Preamble

We, the members of the Nationalist Party, unite in our commitment to the enduring principles that define our Republic. Rooted in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the American's Creed, we affirm that the strength of the United States lies in the shared dedication of its people to liberty, justice, and the common good.

In this defining moment, we reject division and reaffirm our belief in a nation where all citizens have an equal stake, government remains accountable to the people, and the principles of equality, opportunity, and justice guide our future. As a centrist party, we reject ideological extremes and embrace leadership that prioritizes practical solutions for the collective good. With moral clarity and determination, we commit to building a future where liberty, justice, and prosperity endure for all Americans.

Article I: Nationalist Party's Guiding Philosophy

The Nationalist Party embraces a centrist civic nationalism rooted in the enduring values of liberty, justice, and equality. Our ideology is not defined by ethnicity, race, or cultural heritage, but by a shared commitment to the American principles of self-governance, individual rights, and collective responsibility. We believe that a strong nation is built not on division, but on the unity of its people, who come together under the common purpose of upholding these values.

Our civic nationalism is centered around the idea that American identity is defined by a shared commitment to the nation's founding principles and the rule of law. We reject the exclusionary and divisive aspects of ethnic or racial nationalism, focusing instead on the common bonds that unite all citizens, regardless of background, in pursuit of a brighter future for all. This is a nationalism of inclusion, not division.

We recognize that progress is not the product of ideological extremes or partisan divisions but of practical, centrist solutions that address the real challenges facing our nation. Our vision is for a government that serves the needs of all its citizens, providing equal opportunities for prosperity, education, and justice. We advocate for policies that are based on reason, fairness, and the collective good, rejecting both far-left and far-right ideologies that seek to undermine the unity and stability of our Republic.

The Nationalist Party stands for a vision of a unified, strong, and prosperous America—one where citizens are empowered by the values of civic duty, equality, and national solidarity. We are committed to advancing policies that foster national cohesion, protect our sovereignty, and ensure the continued strength of the Republic. This is a vision that transcends partisanship, focusing on the shared future of all Americans, and guided by the timeless principles enshrined in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the American's Creed.

Article II: Immutable and Foundational Principles

Immutable Definition of the Nationalist Party

The Nationalist Party is a civic nationalist movement dedicated to Unity, Strength, and Progress. Rooted in the

Nationalist Party Charter

Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and the American's Creed, the Party is centrist, rejecting ideological extremism in favor of practical governance that serves the common good.

American identity, as upheld by the Nationalist Party, is defined not by ethnicity, race, or cultural heritage, but by a shared commitment to national unity, individual rights, and the rule of law. The Party affirms that all American citizens are equal under the law and entitled to the full rights, responsibilities, and opportunities of national membership.

The Nationalist Party is, above all, a movement—ensuring that political ambitions remain secondary to its greater mission of national renewal, civic responsibility, and the advancement of a just and prosperous Republic.

This definition is immutable and shall never be altered under any circumstances.

Immutable Principles of the Nationalist Party

I. National Identity and Shared Civic Culture

- i. A nation's strength lies in its people's shared commitment to its values, institutions, and civic duties. American identity is not defined by race, ethnicity, or origin but by a dedication to liberty, equality, and self-governance. This common civic culture unites all citizens in shaping the nation's future.
- ii. The Declaration of Independence affirms the right of the people to shape their government. The Constitution guarantees the freedoms that define American citizenship. The American's Creed declares the nation "one and inseparable," built upon the sacrifices of patriots who secured these liberties.
- iii. The Nationalist Party upholds civic education, national service, and shared values as essential to strengthening national cohesion and ensuring all Americans contribute to the Republic's preservation.

II. Sovereignty and National Self-Determination

- i. A free nation must govern itself, defend its interests, and act in the best interest of its citizens. America's sovereignty safeguards its people, values, and ability to engage with the world on its own terms.
- ii. The Declaration of Independence asserted self-rule, rejecting foreign control. The Constitution establishes a government that protects national interests while ensuring power remains with the people. The American's Creed affirms the United States as "a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States," reinforcing the duty to preserve its independence.
- iii. The Nationalist Party is committed to national security, the rule of law, and policies that protect American interests, ensuring sovereignty is never compromised.

III. National Unity and Social Cohesion

- i. A divided nation cannot endure. While differences exist, America's future depends on unity. Citizens must recognize their shared destiny and work together for the common good.
- ii. The Declaration of Independence called for unity in the pursuit of freedom. The Constitution provides a framework for stability amid differing perspectives. The American's Creed describes the U.S. as "a perfect union, one and inseparable," emphasizing national solidarity.

Nationalist Party Charter

- iii. The Nationalist Party rejects divisive identity politics and policies that fragment the nation. Instead, it champions civic bonds, collaboration, and policies that serve all Americans, ensuring the country moves forward as one.

IV. Equality and Individual Rights

- i. The Nationalist Party upholds the self-evident truth that all people are created equal and endowed with unalienable rights, including life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. These rights form the foundation of a just society, ensuring all citizens are treated with dignity, fairness, and respect.
- ii. The Constitution's Bill of Rights guarantees the protection of individual freedoms and equal protection under the law. The American's Creed affirms a nation governed by and for the people, where just powers derive from their consent.
- iii. For the Nationalist Party, equality is non-negotiable—the foundation of both unity and progress. Recognizing inherent rights fosters a sense of belonging and shared responsibility, essential for a just and harmonious society.

V. Responsibility of Government to Serve the People

- i. Government exists to secure the rights of the people, deriving its just powers from their consent. It must serve the nation—not itself—ensuring citizens' needs and interests come first.
- ii. The Constitution establishes a government accountable to the people and bound by the rule of law. The American's Creed reinforces that government must be "of the people, by the people, for the people," ensuring public interest remains at the forefront.
- iii. For the Nationalist Party, government legitimacy depends on its ability to serve effectively—protecting rights, addressing needs, and securing the future. This commitment to service is essential to national strength and progress.

VI. Collective Responsibility and Civic Duty

- i. A nation's strength depends not only on its government but on the active participation of its citizens. Rights are safeguarded through engagement in governance and civic responsibility.
- ii. The Constitution empowers every citizen to shape the nation's future. The American's Creed calls upon individuals to uphold civic duties—supporting the Constitution, obeying laws, respecting the flag, and defending the Republic.
- iii. For the Nationalist Party, civic duty is more than obligation—it is a pillar of national success. A strong, united nation requires citizens actively invested in its future.

VII. Justice and the Rule of Law

- i. The Nationalist Party is unwavering in its commitment to justice and the rule of law. Government must secure individual rights, ensuring laws are applied impartially and justly.
- ii. The Constitution establishes a framework where no one is above the law, ensuring equal protection. The American's Creed affirms a nation governed by law, preserving liberty and justice for all.
- iii. Justice is non-negotiable—the foundation of both unity and progress. Fair and equal laws ensure every citizen has the opportunity to succeed and contribute to the nation's strength.

VIII. Duty to Future Generations

- i. A nation's survival depends on securing a better future for the next generation. Every generation has a responsibility to preserve, strengthen, and advance the Republic.
- ii. The Declaration of Independence ensures that freedom endures. The Constitution establishes a system designed to protect rights and national stability. The American's Creed calls upon citizens to "defend [the nation] against all enemies," recognizing this generational duty.

- iii. The Nationalist Party is committed to fiscal responsibility, environmental stewardship, and investment in education and national development, ensuring a strong, prosperous, and free America for generations to come.

IX. A Centrist Commitment to Unity and Practical Governance

- i. The Nationalist Party rejects ideological extremes and embraces pragmatic solutions that serve the common good. A nation united by shared values, mutual respect, and cooperation is stronger, more resilient, and better equipped for the future.
- ii. The Declaration of Independence affirms that governments derive their powers from the consent of the governed—supporting a government that serves all Americans, not a single faction or ideology.
- iii. The Constitution provides a system of checks and balances, ensuring governance is fair, reasonable, and protective of individual rights while advancing the collective good. No single ideology should dominate; balanced, inclusive solutions must prevail.
- iv. The American's Creed reinforces government's role in serving the people. The Nationalist Party remains steadfast in uniting Americans through shared purpose, rejecting division in favor of national renewal.

These principles are immutable. They serve as the unshakable foundation upon which the Nationalist Party stands. Any action, decision, or amendment made by the Party must align with and uphold these core values, ensuring that the vision of a united, strong, and prosperous America endures.

Article III: The Mission of the Nationalist Party

The mission of the Nationalist Party is to foster a unified, strong, and prosperous America by upholding liberty, justice, and the common good. We are committed to national unity, civic responsibility, and governance that serves the people.

Grounded in civic nationalism, we advocate for centrist, pragmatic solutions that transcend partisan divides. We reject extremism and divisive ideologies, focusing instead on policies that bring Americans together to meet present challenges and secure the nation's future.

The Nationalist Party affirms that government exists to protect the rights of the people, ensuring accountability, justice, and equality under the law. We work toward a society where every citizen is treated with dignity, enjoys equal protection, and contributes to national progress.

Through responsible governance, active civic engagement, and an unwavering commitment to justice, we will ensure America remains a beacon of liberty and opportunity for all.

Through this mission, we will strive to advance a future where America remains a beacon of liberty, opportunity, and prosperity for all who call it home. The Nationalist Party is dedicated to realizing a nation where every American has a stake in the nation's success and works together toward shared progress.

Article IV: Membership

Membership in the Nationalist Party is a call to all who are dedicated to the enduring principles of unity, strength, and progress. By joining this movement, individuals affirm their commitment to the common good and accept their responsibility in shaping the future of the nation. The strength of our movement lies in the collective resolve of its members—united in purpose, determined in action, and unwavering in their pursuit of a prosperous, just, and united America.

The full governing structure, including membership processes and organizational procedures, will be detailed in the Nationalist Party Bylaws.

I. Eligibility for Membership

Membership is open to all United States citizens 18 years of age or older who pledge to uphold the core values of unity, strength, and progress as outlined in this Charter. While the Party encourages engagement at all ages, full membership rights, including voting and eligibility for office, are granted only to those who are 18 or older.

To become a full member, individuals must:

- i. Complete the official membership application process as defined in the Nationalist Party Bylaws.
- ii. Acknowledge the Pledge of Nationalist Commitment, affirming their dedication to the Party's principles and mission.

The Pledge of Nationalist Commitment

"I solemnly pledge my unwavering dedication to the values that fortify our nation and commit to working diligently toward a future of unity, prosperity, and shared responsibility. In making this pledge, I dedicate myself to:"

- i. Champion Civic Nationalism – Upholding and defending the ideals of civic nationalism, ensuring that our nation remains united by common citizenship, purpose, and adherence to the rule of law.
- ii. Foster National Unity – Striving to bridge divides and strengthen the bonds that unite all citizens, prioritizing the collective interests of the nation above partisan or individual gain.
- iii. Commit to Pragmatic Solutions – Supporting policies grounded in practicality, reason, and the common good, addressing the nation's challenges through centrist and evidence-based approaches.
- iv. Promote Opportunity for All – Advocating for a society in which every citizen, regardless of background, has the opportunity to contribute to the strength and progress of our nation.
- v. Engage in Civic Responsibility – Actively participating in the democratic process, supporting reforms that promote fairness, accountability, and transparency in governance.
- vi. Reject Extremism and Division – Opposing all forms of political extremism that seek to undermine national unity, fairness, and prosperity.
- vii. Lead by Example – Upholding the highest standards of integrity, honesty, and civic responsibility, setting a positive example for fellow citizens.

Nationalist Party Charter

- viii. Advance National Renewal – Working toward a future where national unity, practical governance, and shared progress form the foundation of our Republic.

By making this pledge, members commit themselves to the principles and actions that will strengthen and renew the nation. Through this collective effort, the Nationalist Party will advance its mission of national unity, strength, and progress. Each member's dedication, integrity, and active participation is crucial in ensuring the fulfillment of America's promise for future generations.

II. Membership Rights and Responsibilities

Rights of Members

- i. Full members (18 and older) have the right to vote in internal elections.
- ii. Members can hold office within the Party, subject to the necessary qualifications.
- iii. Members have the right to participate in decision-making processes and contribute to Party discussions.

Responsibilities of Members

- i. Members must uphold the Party's principles, ensuring their actions align with its mission.
- ii. Members should actively engage in civic participation, including community service and advocacy.
- iii. Members are expected to conduct themselves with integrity and respect, fostering constructive discourse within the Party.

The Code of Conduct and Ethics, as outlined in a separate document, will govern member expectations, disciplinary procedures, and mechanisms for addressing violations.

Article V: Governance & Leadership

The Nationalist Party is a movement-first organization, ensuring that political ambitions remain secondary to the mission of national renewal. Leadership exists to serve the movement, uphold its principles, and ensure that the Party remains focused on its founding mission.

Until a formal leadership structure is established, the Founder shall serve as leader pro tempore and may appoint an Executive Advisory Council to offer guidance. Future leadership structures must remain centrist, accountable, and in alignment with this Charter. Further details on leadership selection, governance procedures, and affiliated organizations will be outlined in the Nationalist Party Bylaws.

Article VI: Code of Conduct and Ethics

All members and leaders of the Nationalist Party are expected to conduct themselves with integrity, honesty, and a commitment to national unity. The Party rejects corruption, extremism, and divisive rhetoric, standing instead for pragmatism, accountability, and responsible governance.

The Code of Conduct and Ethics will govern enforcement mechanisms, ensuring that all members uphold the Party's principles in their actions and public engagement.

Nationalist Party Charter

Article VII: Amendment Process

The Nationalist Party Charter is a living document that may be refined to strengthen governance and adapt to the needs of the movement. However, the Party's immutable definition and foundational principles, as outlined in Article II, shall remain unalterable under all circumstances. Any amendments to the Charter must align with these principles and require approval by a two-thirds majority of recognized members.

Declaration of Commitment

As members of the Nationalist Party, we pledge to stand together for the common good, rise above division, and work toward a future where America thrives in unity, strength, and progress. We reaffirm our commitment to the principles that define our Republic, embracing civic duty, ethical leadership, and national renewal.

Together, we rise. Together, we build. Together, we renew the American promise.
